

Subsidized Rental Options in Santa Fe

Apartment homes and rental properties are called “affordable” when residents are required to meet certain income criteria in to live at the property. Rental rates are set below the average rent for similar properties in the area.

The properties listed below are owned and managed by a variety of entities that include housing authorities, nonprofit organizations, for-profit companies and private owners. The City of Santa Fe does not own or manage any affordable rental properties in Santa Fe.

Steps to apply for residency at an affordable rental property:

- Call or visit the property.
- Ask about income qualification, rental rates and availability.
- Request and complete an application. Ask if the application will be reviewed right away or if your application will be added to a waiting list.

Note: Owners may close a property’s waiting list if there are a great number of applicants – something that is not unusual for subsidized properties.
