To my fam, the moms, my boys, and every business that understands that supporting families creates systemic change that impacts generations.

LAND ACKNOWLEDGMENT

We acknowledge that the land on which the City of Santa Fe stands—known in Tewa as Oga Po’geh (White Shell Water Place)—is the ancestral and present homeland of the Tewa People who have lived in connection with this place since time immemorial.

We honor the people, the joys, and the sorrows this land holds. We recognize the enduring presence, sovereignty, and cultural contributions of Indigenous peoples—past, present, and future.

We commit to raising our children with deep awareness of Indigenous lands and histories, fostering a lifelong journey of learning, unlearning, and cultural humility.

With intention and care, we hold ourselves accountable to this acknowledgment and encourage our broader community to do the same—as we move together in respect, relationship, and shared responsibility.

RECONOCIMIENTO DE TIERRAS

Reconocemos que la tierra sobre la cual se encuentra la Ciudad de Santa Fe—conocida en Tewa como Oga Po’geh (Lugar de Agua de Concha Blanca)—es el hogar ancestral y actual del pueblo Tewa que ha vivido en conexión con este lugar desde tiempos inmemoriales.

Honramos a las personas, las alegrías y las tristezas que esta tierra alberga.

Reconocemos la presencia perdurable, la soberanía y las contribuciones culturales de los pueblos indígenas—pasado, presente y futuro. Nos comprometemos a criar a nuestros hijos con una profunda conciencia de las tierras y las historias indígenas, fomentando un viaje de aprendizaje, desaprendizaje y humildad cultural durante toda la vida.

Con intención y cuidado, nos hacemos responsables de este reconocimiento y animamos a nuestra comunidad en general a hacer lo mismo—moviéndonos juntos en respeto, relación y responsabilidad compartida.
